BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

David Parish (1778-1826) arrived in America in late 1805. The owner of a successful banking and commission house in Antwerp, he came to this country as the American based partner in a profitable enterprise of shipping bullion from Spanish America to Europe. He directed this business from Philadelphia where he made a fortune estimated at one million dollars. Upon his arrival in America, David Parish visited Gouverneur Morris who had been a friend of David's father when Morris was United States Minister to France. In the spring of 1807, Morris visited Parish and told him of vast lands in northern New York and suggested that they would be a good investment.

In the spring of 1808, with Joseph Rosseel as his land agent, David Parish began purchasing land in the North Country. One of his first purchases was 72,000 acres at one dollar and fifty cents per acre. He later added to this by purchasing large tracts of Jefferson and St. Lawrence Counties. In 1804 there were only four families living in Ogdensburg. In 1809 David Parish bought the unsold portion (only thirty eight lots had been sold) of the village from Samuel Ogden for eight thousand dollars.

Parish saw the possibility of turning Ogdensburg into a main forwarding station on the St. Lawrence River and he made efforts to create a large commercial center there. As a result of hard work on the part of Parish and Rosseel, the town grew considerably in the years before the War of 1812. In 1811 there were fifty houses in Ogdensburg and three new ones under construction. The war suspended the growth of Ogdensburg as many fled during the siege of the village. Most returned after the war and growth continued. By 1834 there were two hundred fifty houses and a population of 2,000.

David Parish, through Joseph Rosseel, cleared lands, built sawmills and gristmills and provided loans to help set up farmers and businesses in the area. In Rossee he developed the iron industry, which made that town the "Pittsburg of the North" in the mid nineteenth century. Parish returned to Europe in 1816 and embarked upon extensive financial undertakings including loans to the Austrian Government. In the midst of a financial panic, Parish lost his fortune. On April 27, 1826, David Parish drowned himself in the Danube. His brother George took over his estate in Northern New York and later a second George Parish, son of David's brother Richard, ran the Parish interests in the North Country.

Joseph Rosseel (1782-1863) was born in Ghent, Belgium and came to America in 1807, a refugee of the war in Europe, with a letter of recommendation which he presented to David Parish. Parish was beginning to purchase land in northern New York at the time and Rosseel was employed as a land agent. He was sent to explore the area and to report to Parish on its possibilities. Rosseel settled in Ogdensburg and conducted business for Parish who remained in Philadelphia.

The importance of Joseph Rosseel in the settling of the North Country can not be overlooked. David Parish spent his time in Philadelphia while Rosseel was responsible for purchasing and developing Parish's lands in northern New York. Rosseel kept in touch with Parish through correspondence and Parish and Rosseel conducted business through the mails. Joseph Rosseel had full Power of Attorney for Parish's affairs in the area and it is he, with the use of Parish's money, who is responsible for the development of large parts of Jefferson and St. Lawrence Counties.

When David Parish left America in 1816 and his brother George took over his interests, Rosseel again was appointed as agent and again had full Power of Attorney. After the death of the first George Parish, a second George Parish, the son of David's brother Richard, became owner of the Parish estate. Joseph Rosseel, once again, was given Power of Attorney and conducted business until his retirement in 1859 when his son took over the Parish affairs.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Parish-Rosseel collection, numbering approximately 1600 items,(38 linear feet) includes correspondence, financial papers, legal documents, prints, photos, maps, and memoranda. Covering more than a century, the collection extends from 1807, with the correspondence of the first Parishes and Rosseels in America, to the present, with the correspondence of the living descendents of both of the families. The bulk of the material falls within the period 1807 to 1816.

The Parish family was largely responsible for the settlement and development of the North Country. As the first industrialists in this area, they opened iron and lead mines, and trade along the St. Lawrence River. The Parish papers are also valuable as a rich source of information about the War of 1812 as it took place along the St. Lawrence River. The Parishes corresponded with many of the leading figures of the time, both in this country and abroad. The files of correspondence which include letters between the Parish family, friends, and business associates provide readers with information on the social and financial activities of that period. Legal documents, account books, and numerous business letters are also invaluable sources for researchers.

PROVENANCE

Much of the collection was discovered by Frank Rosseel in 1906, stored away in the attic of the library building in Ogdensburg. Donations have also been made by descendants of the Parish family. Of particular interest is a large leatherbound album of photographs of the Parish family, the Parish estate in Europe, and the St. Lawrence property once owned by the Parishes as it appeared in the early 1800's. This valuable addition to the collection was given to St. Lawrence University Library by Charles Parish, a direct descendant of the Parish family.

This collection was first made available for public perusal through the efforts of Richard C. Ellsworth, then secretary of St. Lawrence University and trustee of the New York Historical Association. Through his correspondence with Frank Rosseel, he made way for its eventual donation to this Library. As Mr. Ellsworth said of the collection, "This gift of Mr. Rosseel's marks an important milestone in the effort of St. Lawrence University to gather, preserve, and collect for future historians, in writing, the history of northern New York."

A Partial Directory of Names Found in the Parish-Rosseel Collection
By John Austin

Gregoire Agie—Parish's partner in his Antwerp, Belgium commercial house

Dr. Frederic Aigster—a French chemistry professor at Dickinson College in Pennsylvania and was in Pittsburgh by 1815

Russell Attwater – early large landowner and NYS Assemblyman during the War of 1812. Owned the Town of Russell and supervised the construction of the St. Lawrence Turnpike (now called the Russell Turnpike).

Loren Baley—early settler of Hammond. He is buried in Old Hammond Cemetery

Henry Bammann – a former employee of John Parish Sr. in Hamburg, emigrated to Utica and began his own hotel, The York House, which was patronized by Parish and his associates

Alexander Baring – along with his brothers Thomas and Henry took over the operations of London's Baring Brothers trading house in 1804, one of the largest commercial brokerages in the world at the time. He helped orchestrate the transfer of Spanish bullion from Mexico to Europe, the operation that made David Parish a millionaire.

Baring Brothers and Co.—see entry above

Francis Baring—founded Barings Bank along with his brother John in 1762. The firm evolved into Baring Brothers (see above)

Dr. Jean Baptiste Baudry—French doctor sent by Leray de Chaumont as an agent to find a suitable site for Leray's mansion on what is now Ft. Drum.

William Bayard-- New York merchant related by blood and marriage to the Campbell, LeRoy and Pearsall families.

William Benbow—British iron maker brought to Rossie by David Parish to oversee construction and operate the iron furnace there.

Thomas B. Benedict—DeKalb businessman and later militia general during the war of 1812. Lived in Ogdensburg during at least part of the War of 1812.

Horatio Berthrong—early Ogdensburg tavern keeper, who moved to Rossie and operated the Rossie Hotel there by 1815 along with Africa Gates.

Henry Borrekens—an associate of Rosseel's who was set up in business in Sodus with William Hoylaerts by 1810. He apparently moved back to Philadelphia by 1820.

George Bowyer—may be the 6th baronet who served two terms in Parliament.

Samuel Boyd—one of the Board of Directors of the St. Lawrence Turnpike, apparently lived in NYC.

J. Bronson (may be Isaac Bronson, member of the House of Representatives).

William Bruff—prominent merchant of Baltimore.

Jonathan Burrall—cashier of the Bank of the United States. The bank cashier at the time was a very important position as he determined which notes to accept and cash .

George Butler—appears to be the headmaster of Harrow School in England from 1805-29.

Duncan Pierson Campbell—New York merchant related by blood and marriage to the Bayard, LeRoy, Campbell and Pearsall families.

Lynde Catlin—cashier of the Merchants Bank in NYC.

Francois Changuion—Appointed Dutch minister to the United States in 1814, partly as a result of Parish's influence.

John Charnock, and H. and T Charnock.—children of Elizabeth Parish Charnock Hamilton by her first husband John Charnock, and therefore David Parish was their uncle. John Charnock came to the US in 1815 to stay with Parish, and worked in Stephen Girard's counting house in Philadelphia in Apr. 1816.

Robert Coleman—industrialist and major iron producer in Lancaster, PA. He put parish on to William Benbow as a possible iron master for Rossie. He was Pennsylvania's first millionaire.

Mary Colquhoun—daughter of Margaret Ross Colquhoun, who was a sister of Hercules and Colin Ross (qv). Margaret Ross married Humphrey Colquhoun.

Benedikt and Sebastian Cramer or Brothers Cramer—merchants originally from Hamburg but headquartered in St. Petersburg, Russia in the early 19th Century.

William Cruttenden-- apparently the headmaster of a school in Macclesfield, England where John Charnock was educated for a time.

Jonathan Dayton—lawyer and land speculator from Elizabeth, NJ who served in the House and US Senate 1791-1805. He was a follower of Aaron Burr and Dayton OH is named for him.

Robert Dickey—wealthy merchant of New York City involved in the China trade.

Thomas Eddy—born in Philadelphia and became a wealthy merchant and politician in NYS. He was one of the original commissioners of the Erie Canal.

Edward Ellice—British merchant and politician known as "The Bear". He was the head of the Hudson's Bay Company and was a member of Parliament.

Henry Escher—a native of Zurich, but emigrated to Philadelphia in the 1790's and became a US citizen. He was a merchant who had strong international connections.

Samuel Evans—although a Quaker, a veteran of the Revolution. He was a large land owner in northeastern Jefferson County, NY. Evans Mills is named for him.

Nathan Ford—wealthy landowner, judge and political leader of St. Lawrence Co. 1796-1829. He was the founder of Ogdensburg and acted as agent for Samuel Ogden.

Isaac Forester—early settler of Hammond. He is buried in Pleasant Valley Cemetery.

Archibald Gracie— NYC merchant and associate of David Parish. His former mansion in northern Manhattan is the official residence of the Mayor of New York.

Elizabeth Hamilton—David Parish's older sister who married Thomas Hamilton as her second husband (a man named Charnock was her first husband).

Thomas Hamilton--second husband of Elizabeth Parish. He often wrote to Parish for financial advice. Parish sent him enough money to avoid defaulting on his mortgage in July 1815.

John Henry (NOT A.J Henry) --a Philadelphia native who moved to Montreal and became a Canadian patriot and spy.

John Vernor Henry—Albany lawyer and trustee of Union College, served as NYS Comptroller in 1800.

Daniel Hoard—Parish's original agent in charge of developing Parishville.

Capt. Christian Holmes--of David Parish's schooner captains 1809-1812 who lived on Washington St. in Ogdensburg.

William Hoylaerts—Flemish associate of Rosseel's who was set up in business in Sodus, NY with Henry Borrekens.

Wolcott Hubbell—early resident of Ogdensburg.

Albrecht Insinger—Dutch banker based in Amsterdam and head of Insinger and Co.

Johannes Insinger—either the brother or the father of Albrecht Insinger of Amsterdam.

Frederick Kohne-- Philadelphia merchant.

James Leray de Chaumont—wealthy French emigre who owned vast land holdings in northern NY and who sold Parish his first land purchase. His mansion was in Leraysville on the grounds of present day Ft. Drum.

Vincent LeRay de Chaumont—oldest son of James Leray de Chaumont and he took over the operation of his father's land business when he returned to France in 1814(?). Cape Vincent, NY is named for him.

Herman LeRoy— New York merchant and financier related by blood and marriage to the Campbell, Bayard and Pearsall families.

David M. Lewis—Parish's assistant in Philadelphia, who moved to Ogdensburg in 1809 and went into business with Joseph Rosseel as J. Rosseel and Co. After Rosseel's departure, he formed a partnership with Louis Schwormstede as Lewis and Schwormstede (qv).

Lewis and Schwormstede—the trading company in Ogdensburg which was the successor to J. Rosseel and Co., (run by Rosseel and David Lewis).

Edward G. Ludlow—apprentice to Joseph Rosseel in 1813 and 1814. He later became a doctor.

Fr. Joseph Marcoux—the French missionary priest at St. Regis for many years.

George Macdonnell—British colonel who commanded at Prescott during the War of 1812.

C. Mercier—businessman from Antwerp(?) who wrote a letter of introduction for Joseph Rosseel.

Rev. Alexander R. Miller—father of Louisa Miller Rosseel, Joseph Rosseel's wife.

Dr. Josiah Noyes—Professor of Chemistry at Fairfield Academy in Herkimer Co. NY. He carried out the iron ore assay from the ore bed in Rossie and pronounced it suitable for smelting.

David B. Ogden—son of Samuel Ogden, the original owner of Oswegatchie. David B. bought Oswegatchie from his father and sold Ogdensburg to Parish in 1809.

Robert and John Oliver—Baltimore merchants involved in Parish's bullion shipments in 1806-8.

Thomas Oliverson—partner in the London Law firm of Lavie, Oliverson and Denby.

Parish and Co. or David Parish and Co. —is Parish's original mercantile house in Antwerp, Belgium established in 1803.

Charles Parish—David Parish's second youngest brother.

George Parish I—youngest brother of David Parish. He took over his American operations from 1816-1839.

George Parish II—son of David Parish's older brother Richard and thus his nephew. He ran the Parish operation in St. Lawrence Co. from 1839 until 1863.

John Parish Jr. —David Parish's oldest brother, later the Baron of Sefftenberg in Bohemia.

John Parish Sr. —David Parish's father who moved from Hamburg to Bath in 1807.

Mrs. John Parish Sr—the former Henrietta Todd, David Parish's mother.

Richard Parish—David Parish's next oldest brother. His son George Parish took over the Parish concerns in New York State in 1839.

Timothy Pickering—US Secretary of State. He fired John Parish Sr. as US consul in Hamburg.

Hezekiah Pierrepont—wealthy NYC landowner and owner of the Town of Pierrepont.

Joseph Jacques Ramee—famous European architect and friend of David Parish. He designed Parish's mansion and the main buildings of Union College in Schenectady.

B. Woolsey Rogers—wealthy NYC merchant.

Dr. Robert H. Rose—owner of a large tract of land near Silver Lake, PA.

A(nna). Ross— née Anna Magdalen Martens, married Colin Ross, the brother of Hercules Ross, and lived in Hamburg. She is the mother of John and Edward Ross who often wrote to Parish.

David Ross (Jr.)—brother of Hercules and Colin Ross who lived in Virginia. He was therefore the uncle of John and Edward Ross, and Edward Ross tried to get money from him.

Edward Ross—son of Colin Ross of Hamburg and nephew of Hercules Ross. Hercules Ross married Henrietta (Harriet) Parish. So Edward Ross was not a blood relative of David Parish, but was Parish's sister's nephew by marriage. Nevertheless, Edward Ross worked for Parish and was in frequent contact with him, especially after he moved to the US.

Harriet (Henrietta) Ross—David Parish's oldest sister. She married Hercules Ross and they bought a mansion in Scotland they called "Rossie", which is the origin of Parish's town of that name. She died in 1811.

Hercules Ross—a merchant and trader, good friend of Adm. Horatio Nelson. He had a family of illegitimate children in the West Indies, then abandoned them, moved back to Scotland and married Henrietta Parish. They owned an estate in Scotland which they named "Rossie".

Horatio Ross—son of Hercules and Henrietta Parish Ross, and godson of Adm. Horatio Nelson. He later became a famous marksman, sportsman and photographer.

John Ross—son of Colin Ross of Hamburg and nephew of Hercules Ross and his wife Henrietta Parish Ross. He moved to Ogdensburg in 1812 and lived in Parish's mansion for 2 years as a caretaker. He was often the point-man for talks with the British military. Some of his most sensitive letters are in German Maria G. Ross—youngest child of Hercules and Henrietta Parish Ross, therefore David Parish's niece.

Jean Baptiste Rosseel—Joseph Rosseel's brother.

A. Schwormstede— merchant who took Rosseel's place in the partnership with David M. Lewis to run the stone store in Ogdensburg in Oct. 1812.

George N. Seymour—lived in Springfield, VT and moved to Ogdensburg where he married and is buried. At one time he acted as Parish's agent in Vermont. He is Jane Fonda's great great grandfather.

Samuel Sherwood—could be either the father or son, as both were prominent Canadian politicians

Gilbert Smissaert—originally from the Netherlands, moved to St. Lawrence Co. and oversaw much of the development of Parishville.

Robert Troup—Revolutionary veteran, member of the NYS Assembly and agent managing the Pultney estate in central NYS.

Willings and Francis-- a Philadelphia commercial house which insured some of Parish's bullion shipments to Europe.

Oliver Wolcott—president of the Bank of America in 1812-3

NOTE—it should be “John Henry” not “A J Henry

NOTE that many of Rosseel’s letters came from friends and family in Ghent, but the city is written in the French style “Gand”

NOTE that letter #1439 from John V. Henry was sent from GUY Park, not “GAY” Park

NOTE it is WOLCOTT Hubbell, not WILCOTT

NOTE it is Edward G. Ludlow, not LAIDLAW

NOTE that letter #1013 says that Lewis and Schwormstede were attorneys for David Parish. They were his lessees in the stone store, and may at one time have been given Power of Attorney for him, but they were merchants, not lawyers

NOTE J. B. Rosseel and Jean Rosseel should be combined as Jean Baptiste Rosseel. And perhaps John Rosseel.

I. Parish-Rosseel.
