BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

GEORGE REDINGTON

George Redington was born in 1798 in Vergennes, Vermont, the oldest son of Jacob and Eunice King Redington. In 1800 the family came to New York State where Jacob was engaged in surveying the new towns of Canton and Lisbon. The family lived in the town of Madrid which, until 1859, included Waddington, or Hamilton as it was then known.

At the age of five George suffered from an illness which resulted in the loss of the use of one leg and for the rest of his life he used crutches. George attended the St. Lawrence Academy in Potsdam from 1813 to 1816 when he went to Montreal where he taught school. In 1819 he returned to study law under Gouverneur Ogden. In 1823 he was admitted to the bar and practiced until 1831 when he became engaged in the real estate business.

With the rapid opening of the North Country there were excellent opportunities in land speculation. George Redington took advantage of these opportunities and speculated for himself as well as acting as a land agent for some of the large commission merchants in New York City. He also engaged in lumbering and lumber related businesses. He erected several mills and produced lumber and square timber which he sent by rafts down the St. Lawrence River to Montreal, Quebec, Albany, Troy and New York.

In 1841 Redington was elected to the Assembly of the state of New York where he served three consecutive terms. He also served as a judge of the Court of Common Pleas of St. Lawrence County, as a justice of the peace, and as a supervisor of Waddington. In 1850 George Redington died in his sleep after a brief illness.

JAMES REDINGTON

James Redington was born in 1810 in Waddington. He received his education at the St. Lawrence Academy in Potsdam and studied law with his brother George. He was admitted to the bar in 1831 and set up a practice in Waddington. He served as surrogate of the county of St. Lawrence, as a member of the assembly of the State of New York and as consular agent at Morrisburg, Canada. He also became very active in the Sons of Temperance movement, Waddington Division number 299.

After the death of his brother, George, James administered the estate and business.

SCOPE AND CONTENTS

The Redington Papers consist of the papers of George Redington, one of the original settlers of Waddington, N.Y. The collection, measuring 17 linear feet, includes correspondence, business papers, legal documents, and books and ledgers. The papers date from the early 1820's to the 1860's, with the bulk of the collection falling between 1825-1850. George Redington had extensive business dealings in Northern New York, New York City and in Montreal and Quebec. Of particular interest are his business papers which deal with his lumber and timber industry and the rafting of lumber along the St. Lawrence River.

Also of interest are the papers of Redington's brother James, who was also active in business in Waddington. Particularly interesting are his papers dealing with the local Sons of Temperance. The collection contains correspondence related to that organization as well as a book of minutes from the years 1849-1858, a "Black Book", and a book labeled "Constitution".

St. Lawrence University does not own the literary rights to this collection.

PROVENANCE

St. Lawrence University purchased this collection in 1958 from a Canadian book dealer.
